Language Policy and Planning in Universities-Anthony J. Lidzicoff 2018-10-18 In a world where higher education is increasingly internationalised, questions of language policy and planning in universities have never been more pressing. The contributors to this book come from a wide variety of linguistic and cultural backgrounds to discuss language policy planning and practice. The book is divided into four parts that examine, respectively, language policy in universities in the context of globalization, university language planning, the production of policy, and the role of language policy and planning in university governance. Each part is further divided into chapters that address specific topics in language policy and planning.

The English Language in West Africa-John Walter Spencer 1971

The English Language in West Africa is the first English language study of West Africa. This book is essential reading for anyone interested in the history, language, literature, and culture of West Africa. The author explores the history of English in West Africa, from its introduction in the 18th century to its current status as a language of education and commerce. The book also includes a detailed history of the development of English in Nigeria, Ghana, and Sierra Leone.

To Swim with Crocodiles-Jill E Kelly 2018-06-01

To Swim with Crocodiles: Land, Violence, and Belonging in South Africa, 1800–1996 offers a fresh perspective on the history of South Africa. The book explores the role of land and violence in shaping the country's political, social, and cultural landscape. The author uses a combination of oral history and archival research to shed light on the experiences of ordinary people, particularly those who lived on the margins of society.

African Language Media-Albidun Saleu 2020-11-17

This volume considers the African language media and its role in shaping public opinion and mobilizing communities. The contributors provide a comprehensive overview of the historical, social, and political contexts of African language media. They also explore the challenges and opportunities facing African language media today.

Advances in Energy Science and Equipment Engineering II Volume 2-Shiquan Zhou 2017-09-19

The 2016 2nd International Conference on Energy Equipment Science and Engineering (ICEESE 2016) was held on November 12-14, 2016 in Guangzhou, China. ICEESE 2016 brought together innovative academics and industrial experts in the field of energy equipment science and engineering to a common forum. The primary goal of this conference is to promote research and developmental activities in energy equipment science and engineering and another goal is to provide a platform for researchers, developers, engineers, students, and practitioners working all around the world. The conference will be held every year to make it an ideal platform for people to share views and experiences in energy equipment science and engineering. The Proceedings of the Conference are published by Springer.

Introductory Phonology-Bruce Hayes 2011-09-13

Accessible, succinct, and including numerous student-friendly features, this introductory textbook offers an engaging introduction to the core principles of phonological theory and practice. Its coverage of prosodic structures, morphological and phonological typology, and syncretic sounds in American English and Spanish.

Research in African Development-Abass M. Tariq 2017-12-21

This book offers an overview of research in African development. It covers the history, methods, and challenges of research in the field, as well as the ways in which research has been used to inform policy and practice in Africa. The book is intended for researchers, policymakers, and students of African development.